

8

EFOMV

Encontro de Formação
da Ordem dos
Médicos Veterinários

Gayle Hallowell

Gayle graduated from the University of Cambridge and completed a rotating internship and then large animal internal medicine and critical care residency at the Royal Veterinary College in London. She then completed a PhD investigating aortic valve prolapse at the University of Nottingham. She is Professor in Veterinary Internal Medicine and Critical Care. She is an American Specialist in Large Animal Internal Medicine, American Specialist in Large Animal Emergency and Critical Care and Associate Diplomate of the European College of Veterinary Diagnostic Imaging. Her main interests are equine cardiology, gastroenterology, imaging and emergency and critical care.

Equine

Fluid therapy in the 21st Century

Using clinical pathology in the sick horse

Cardiovascular emergencies in foals and adults

